Blevins Football Player Is Shot to Death at Stamps

Lynn Slagel, 21, Is Accidentally Killed Early Wednesday

WAS STAR LINEMAN

Had Planned to Enter Henderson State College This Fall

Lynn Slagel, 21, star end on the Blevins High School football team last year, was killed early Wednesday at Stamps, reports to relatives at Blevins said.

Slagel was accidentally shot by his brother-in-law, Olin Phillips of Stamps. Details of the shooting could not be learned, other than the accident occurred about 5 o'clock. Young Slagel died four hours later.

Slagel was graduated from Blevins High School last spring and had planned to enter Henderson State Teachers college this fall.

Burial will probably be at Blevins Thursday afternoon.

He is survived by four sisters, Mrs. Herbert Biggers, Mrs. Mack Pickard, Mrs. Olin Phillips and Mrs. A. L. Thomas.

One brother, Vernon Slagel.

Young Slagel had been employed this summer on construction of an oil well derrick near Stamps.

Sinclair Wins In California Poll

Ex-Socialist Receives Democratic Nomination for Governor

By the Associated Press

Upton Sinclair, former Socialist, led opponents for the California Democratic gubernatorial nomination in early returns from Tuesday's primaries. Although opposed by conservative Democrats, Sinclair led his nearest contestant, George Creel, war-time propaganda director, more than two to one.

Governor Frank F. Merriam led the field for the Republican gubernatorial nomination in California while Senator Hiram Johnson, Republican independent, appeared certain to win both Democratic and Republican senatorial approval.

Mississippi Democrats, in incomplete returns, gave Senator Hubert D. Stephens a substantial lead for re-nomination over Theodore G. Bilbo, former governor, and Representative Ross Collins, who was running third.

While the outcome of the liquor referendum in South Carolina remained in doubt, Olin D. Johnston, a younger son, was leading the veteran Cole L. Blease, in the race for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Representative Ross A. Collins, was leading the field for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

Kitchen's Lead Is 368 Votes in Congress Race

Charley Parker Increases Vote Over Humphrey for Auditor

6,356 VOTES AHEAD

Stewart Virtually Assured Nomination for Prosecuting Attorney

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Late unofficial returns Wednesday afternoon from Tuesday's Democratic run-off primary, gave Wade Kitchens of Magnolia, a small lead of 368 votes over the veteran congressman, Tilman B. Parks of Camden, in the race for representative in the seventh congressional district.

The count stood with tabulations from 290 precincts out of 297: Kitchens, 14,441; Parks, 14,073.

Parker's Lead Widens

Charley Parker's margin over Oscar Humphrey in the race for state auditor widened as belated unofficial returns were counted Wednesday afternoon.

Parker had a lead of 6,356 votes when returns from 1,556 precincts out of 2,050 had been counted.

Carrigan Loses

Unofficial returns from five counties with only four precincts missing, gave Ned Stewart a lead of 367 votes over his opponent, Steve Carrigan, in the race for prosecuting attorney for the Eighth judicial district.

Wednesday's tabulation with Hempstead, Nevada and Miller counties complete, one precinct unreported from Clark and three missing from Lafayette, the count stood: Stewart, 6,782; Carrigan, 6,415.

The table: Stewart 6,782; Carrigan 6,415

Parker Leads

LITTLE ROCK.—Charley Parker of Camden, candidate for state auditor, was leading Auditor J. Oscar Humphrey by 4,888 votes early Tuesday night as more than 127,500 ballots were counted from 1,219 of 22,050 precincts in Arkansas' first state-wide run-off primary.

The vote was: Parker, 74,794; Humphrey, 69,906.

Parker won the right to enter the run-off two weeks ago when Humphrey lacked about 11,000 votes of a majority over his two opponents. In the August 14 election, Humphrey received 117,263 votes; Parker, 76,000, and B. W. Harris of Lake Village, 52,017.

No reports had been received from nine counties but the tabulations from the others indicated that the voting was considerably heavier than many had anticipated.

However, there were local races in only 56 counties.

Kitchens Out in Front

In the Seventh Congressional District, Wade Kitchens of Magnolia, former state representative, was leading Congressman Tilman B. Parks of Camden by 174 votes, with more than 28,700 ballots counted from 210 of 300 precincts.

The vote was: Kitchens, 10,900; Parks, 10,726.

There are 11 counties in the Seventh district, and no returns had been received from Calhoun. Returns from Bradley, Ouachita and Nevada counties were complete. Parks carried Ouachita 1,377 to 1,135, but Kitchens carried Bradley 1,244 to 967. Kitchens also carried Nevada, 1,459 to 1,019.

Five Are Killed In Oil Explosion

Others Missing, Property Damage to Run Into Millions

CAMPANA, Argentina.—(AP)—Residents here fled in terror Wednesday as a sea of flaming oil and gasoline flared in ward explosion-racked Campana.

A change in the wind sent fire flicking toward this city after several giant oil tanks had gone up like firecrackers. Oil from more than a dozen tanks was burning.

Five persons were known dead, and others were missing. Property damage will run into millions.

Only 17 Counties Not on Relief List

Hempstead County Is Placed on Secondary List

LITTLE ROCK.—Like a giant shadow slowly falling from the northwest, the second major drought to blight Arkansas prospects in five years has grown in damage and extent since early summer, until only 17 counties remain in which some form of drought relief has not been granted.

Since the first drought relief recommendation for specific counties was made to national drought relief authorities by agricultural officials July 23, 35 Arkansas counties have been designated for emergency drought relief and 21 for secondary drought relief.

Crops on the delta lands along the eastern border of the state are in excellent condition. T. Roy Reid, state drought relief director and assistant director in charge of the agricultural extension service, said Tuesday.

Varying reports of drought conditions have been received from other portions of the small area which has not received drought relief, and it is hoped that further rains will make drought relief in most of these counties unnecessary, Mr. Reid said.

Not Included

Counties not on the drought relief are Mississippi, Cross, St. Francis, Lee, Crittenden, Phillips, Monroe, Jefferson, Lincoln, Desha, Drew, Bradley, Ashley, Chicot, Lonoke and Prairie.

Hempstead County Added

Hempstead county Tuesday was placed on the secondary list in the drought area of the "emergency list," County Agent Frank Stanley said Wednesday.

The secondary list entitled farmers to obtain grain loans for fall planting. In the event that Hempstead is placed on the emergency list farmers will be entitled to much larger loans, Mr. Stanley explained.

Roosevelt Scoffs at Inflation Talk

HYDE PARK, N. Y.—(AP)—President Roosevelt scoffed Wednesday as he said it is only the ultimate intention of the federal government to use the gold profit from devaluation of the dollar, and laughed away inquiries of inflation by the immediate use of this fund.

The president spoke in response to questions about speeches Tuesday night by Secretary Morgenthau who stated the purpose to employ the gold profit was for the retirement of the public debt.

The gold profit is looked upon as a nest egg and will be so regarded, the president said.

Routon Funeral Held Wednesday

Well Known Hope Man Dies Here Tuesday After Short Illness

Funeral services for William Ralph Routon, well known Hope man who died Tuesday, were held from the family residence Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Officiating were the Rev. E. Clifton Rule, Dr. J. L. Cannon and the Rev. Wallace R. Rogers. Burial was in Rose Hill cemetery.

Surviving are his widow and two children, Frances Lenora Routon and William Ralph Routon Jr. Three sisters, Miss Frances Routon, Mrs. J. L. Crockett and Mrs. T. W. Shows all of Laverne, Ala., and Mrs. C. H. Parks of Tallahassee, Fla.

Three brothers, Earl of Havana, Fla., Horace of Ashdown and Charles Routon of Hope.

The city council, meeting in special session Wednesday morning, adopted a resolution of tribute and respect to Mr. Routon.

The resolution: WHEREAS, William Ralph Routon departed this life August 28, 1934, and WHEREAS, he was for several years a member of the City Council of the City of Hope, Arkansas, and was a member of the Board of Commissioners that erected the City Hall of this City;

WHEREAS, he was one of the most progressive, valued and beloved citizens of our City; and

WHEREAS, the City in his passing has sustained a great loss;

NOW THEREFORE, Be It Resolved, by the City Council of the City of Hope, Arkansas, in special session assembled, that in recognition of the honorable, upright and industrious life he lived, and the valuable services rendered by him to the City of Hope, and to his fellowman, and as a tribute of respect to him, all City Offices be closed during the time of his funeral.

Be It Further Resolved that a copy of this resolution be spread upon the minutes of this body, a copy be furnished to the family of the deceased, and a copy be furnished to the press.

The above and foregoing resolution was adopted at a special meeting of the City Council August 29, 1934.

Peace Parley Is Called Thursday in Textile Row

Union Leaders, Employers Stick to Guns in Eastern Area

"ROUND TABLE" TALK

Cotton Mill Managers Ready to Close Doors If Strike Opens

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—On the eve of a peace conference called to prevent a strike from crippling the nation's textile industry, union leaders and employers stuck to their guns Wednesday.

As the national labor relations board threw all its influence behind the peace move, these storm clouds hovered:

1. Francis J. Gorman, chairman of the United Textile workers' strike board, accused employers of trying to deny the workers as striking against the government.

2. Some cotton mill managers were reported ready to close their factories if the strike materializes next Tuesday as planned.

Conference Thursday

The union leaders have accepted the labor board's invitation to a round table talk Thursday and the manufacturers, though reported to be making preparations for the strike, are expected to attend also. Chairman Lloyd Garrison, noted mediator, will preside.

Gorman accused George Sloan, head of the cotton textile institute as trying to put strikers in the plight of striking against the cotton textile code or the government. He said Sloan was trying to get code authority members to come to the peace conference.

"I find it necessary to repeat," he said, "that we are not striking against the government and we are not interested in meeting with the code authority."

Told that the cotton textile relation board, headed by Bruce Bruce, had been asked to the conference, Gorman said that he would do no business with the board, which he has criticized.

Nine textile mills in Alabama were reported ready to close in the event of a strike. The executive council of the UTW meets Thursday to decide whether to call out silk, rayon and woolen workers as well as cotton operatives. The union leaders say that if this is done, the strike will involve between 700,000 and 800,000 persons.

To Make Policy Changes in NRA

Removal of Restriction on Production Under Consideration

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—NRA is considering vital changes in policy as a means of greatly reducing the number of unemployed this fall.

This became known at the same time as it was disclosed that Hugh S. Johnson, still firmly in control despite recent rows over reorganization has had his salary increased from $6,000 to $15,000 a year.

President Roosevelt boosted the pay last July 1, long before the differences with Donald R. Richberg, NRA general counsel, and Secretary Perkins came near the breaking point. Johnson had complained many times that he could not live on $6,000 and would have to return to private business.

It is while Johnson is on vacation that his aides are studying a wide variety of proposals to step up employment before winter sets in, throwing added relief burdens on the federal and state governments.

One plan which would involve a distinct departure from the previous emergency concepts of NRA would remove production restrictions in thousands of men to work through the production and consumption made possible by greater purchasing power.

Another would seek to open additional jobs through changes in hours and wages such as was done in the cotton garment code. This method of approach would be made easier under the reorganization of all codes into 22 groups which was announced Tuesday.

With the fall season almost here, it was believed that some plan might be ready for presentation to President Roosevelt at Hyde Park, N. Y., when Johnson confers with the chief executive on the reorganization program. This meeting is less than two weeks away.

Bulletins

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Contending that workers in the oil industry were much worse off under the oil code than before it was put into operation, the International Association of oil field, gas well and refinery workers Wednesday asked that the code be reopened and its labor provisions re-written.

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Chairman Garrison of the National Labor Relations Board said Wednesday that he had no intention of withdrawing from the menacing textile strike situation, but that "unless something develops" he would make no formal request that the work-out, scheduled September 4, be delayed.

Van Meter Put On Spot by Own Mob

Police Who Killed Gunman Acted On Tip From Gang

ST. PAUL, Minn.—(AP)—Homer Van Meter, Dillinger lieutenant, died under a hail of police lead inspired by his own associates who feared his promiscuous association with women would blast carefully laid plans for new bank raids.

This story, disclosed by a reliable source, gave police a fresh investigative angle. Chief of Police Frank Culbert, who led the detail of officers who shot Van Meter down in a blind alley here Thursday night, said it would be investigated carefully.

The latest report linked George (Baby Face) Nelson, much-sought Dillinger associate and several others in a new plot to make simultaneous swift raids on two north Minnesota banks to replenish depleted coffers and then flee to a hideout reported to be located near the Canadian border.

Other reported members of the gang said to have given police the tip that led to Van Meter's death are John Hamilton, Dillinger lieutenant, often reported dead; Alvin Karpis and Fred Barker, sought for the $200,000 Ed-ward G. Bremer abduction here, and Arthur (Doc) Barker, brother of Fred. Northern Minnesota banks were said to have been chosen for the forays because of the nearness to the reported hideout.

Faulty Diet Blamed For Many Boils—Eruptions Need Doctor's Care

God tried out Job with boils among other things. But any one with a real one, or especially a series of them, is perfectly sure that God had nothing to do with it. Quite the opposite indeed.

Thus my pity for the child who gets one after another. They hurt, boils, do, and something should be done about them.

Such a child should be hustled off to the doctor. What the doctor does is his own affair, but be sure he will do something. First of all he will make tests very likely and see what about diet. There may be something lacking in the food. Remember, please, that this is no underestimation of the actual food he eats. The child may be getting every element that he needs. His ability to take care of certain things and assimilate them into the blood is another matter altogether.

Boils are Warnings
There are mysterious ways of building up a child's resistance and giving him the power to absorb the good of the things he eats. When this happens, and his blood stream is chemically balanced, there will very likely be a betterment of his condition. But all that is decidedly in the province of the medical profession. The boils are merely warnings—symptoms of something that needs looking after.

Occasionally a child will have one boil, or two—perhaps even three. Then quietly the semaphores of trouble will draw in its signals and the painful swelling will stop. Whatever the temporary upset was, it is all over. However, it is still best to talk to the doctor about it. Help at this stage may save suffering later. If they are merely a flash in the pan there is no harm done in seeing the medical man anyway.

Salt Poultice Urged
You will want to know about treating the occasional boil. When it appears, all the neighbors have ideas. Soap poultice, bacon poultice, hot bread poultice, or what have you. When it comes to a head, this poultice will go blithely for a needle and jab it in to let out the pus.

But if you will ask the doctor or the nurse they will tell you the best way is to keep the boil damp with salt water until it comes to a head and breaks itself. Use about one tablespoon of salt to the pint. Bandage loosely to keep the pad on. Keep it constantly moist.

However, if it doesn't behave and come to a head, the doctor will have to open it. The sensible course is not to fool with any boil on child or adult. In hot weather, wet things often go wrong when the sun is high—and home surgery is always a risky thing.

When Flaming Youth Tries to Settle Down

Aimless and Petty Society Depicted in This Novel

BY BRUCE CATTON
A little more than a decade ago we were all hot and bothered about the Lost Generation, flappers, flaming youth, gin-swilling collegiates, and the rest of the self-consciously abandoned group made familiar by J. Scott Fitzgerald.

Those folk have grown up, by now, and have married and settled down; and if you want to know what they look like as they slide into their 30's you cannot do better than to read John O'Hara's new novel, "Appointment in Samaria."

Mr. O'Hara tells of a group of young married folk in a small city in Pennsylvania. They are the Fitzgerald children grown into men and women; the country club crowd, now rootless and aimless, drifting with the tide, educated and cultured on the surface, but blind and rather stupid beneath.

They make, indeed, an odd set, snobbish and jealous and vaguely dissipated. They rise with the industrial boom and think themselves fine fellows, when the bubble bursts they cannot understand why they start to sink.

Mr. O'Hara is chiefly concerned with one Julian English, head of a high-priced auto agency. This chap, who seems to be a smart business man, and a completely good scout, actually turns up to be pretty stupid.

For no reason at all, except that he is irritable and rather dumb, he in-

Gas Escaping Stomach May Cause Explosion

The records of medicine are filled with all sorts of queer incidents. One of the most unusual has just been reported to a British medical organization.

It was the case of a man who was going to light a cigarette, and as he did so he belched. An explosion resulted. The man had suffered for some years with pain in the region of the stomach, after eating. He had developed the habit of strong eructations or belching of gas after meals.

As he sat beside his wife in a motion picture house, he felt inclined to smoke. He took out a cigarette and inserted it between his lips. He then lit a match and started to touch it to the cigarette between his cupped fingers.

At this moment he was seized with a violent desire to belch. To his alarm and astonishment, and to that of those seated near him, there was a flash and a sharp explosion.

The cigarette was blown from his lips across several rows of seats. His mustache was burned and his fingers were singed.

The man decided at once to have a complete medical examination. It was found that he had suffered from ulcers of the stomach and obstruction of the opening from the stomach into the intestines.

The explanation offered is that the gas from the man's stomach mingled with the air in his mouth and in his cupped hands in just the right proportions, and that the application of the match brought about the explosion.

The unusual character of this incident caused a careful investigation of medical literature and three similar cases were found.

One case is reported of a man who had not had a foul odor to his breath. He was blowing out a match which he had struck to see what time it was when the explosion occurred.

In another case the gas from the stomach was analyzed and was found to contain enough hydrogen to form an explosive mixture. In a third case a man who ate a great deal of eggs belched and gas was found which contained hydrogen sulphide.

The man who most recently was a sufferer from an explosion was operated on for the treatment of his gastric ulcer. He has since recovered and has continued the eructation of gas.

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

By Alicia Hart

Proper Brushing Is Essential.

It's somewhat surprisingly true that a good many otherwise fastidious women never have taken the trouble to learn to care for their teeth. They spend hours practicing home-facial routines, months learning how to exercise to prevent excess weight and then go right on ignoring the very things by which they're often immediately judged.

Of course, it all sounds very simple and almost anyone is apt to pooh-pooh the idea of taking real time to learn something which seems rather obvious. That is, anyone except a person who went long for years doing a bad teeth-cleaning job but who has since learned the correct method.

First of all, use a small toothbrush—one with tiny bristles that get into all the between-teeth spaces. Select your dentifrice for its efficiency, not simply because you like the flavor of it. Your dentifrice is a good one to consult on this question.

Speaking of your dentifrice, be sure to see it oftener than once a year. It's a duty you must not neglect. Brushing correctly is another little duty that you shouldn't overlook.

Begin at the back of the upper row of teeth. Brush downward all the way around. Not upward—that pushes the gums back. Then brush upward involves himself in a chain of blunders from which he can escape at last, only by killing himself. And his career seems to epitomize the course of his whole class.

Published by Harcourt, Brace & Co. the book sells at $2.50.

on the inside of the lower row, downward on the outside of the upper, and upward on the outside of the bottom row. Make sure that each tooth gets its share of attention. Don't brush crosswise. Most important, spend at least 10 minutes at the task. You can't do it properly in less time.

to her nor noticed that the clerk, tendering the pen, glanced at her curiously. She only knew, in a dim sort of way, that Russ called her his sister. He would register for her, he said. She was ill. . . .

Then they were in an elevator,

Russ still carrying the cowhide bag.

The car stopped at the 10th floor.

Russ, the big, tagged key in his hand, fitted it into a lock.

Boots glanced around her incur-rently. The narrow room with the cream-colored walls, the mahogany bed, the typical hotel dresser with its glass top all vaguely puzzled

her. She only knew that she longed to sink down into the coolness of the white pillows, to draw the coverlet over her head and sleep. . . .

"I hate to leave you here alone," she heard a voice saying to her as from a distance. Through a mist

she looked up at the face of the man beside her. "You're sick, kiddy," he said.

She would get all right, she said.

If he would get her some aspirin

. . . why, then, she would get to sleep. She would be all right. She thought of her own shabby, videwindowed room under the eaves with the shades drawn against the hot, battering sunshine. Her own bed with its blue spread. . . . It all seemed very far away. Tomorrow she would put her hand in this man's, take his name. That was what marriage meant. Beyond that she knew nothing. . . . The pain beat at her temples like a live thing. . . .

"Call the desk and order some food if you need it," she heard

Russ saying. "I'll call you in an hour."

When she awoke it was quite dark. The square of window below the blue shade showed yellow against the blackness of the walls.

She sat up, pushing her hair back from her face, her mind fogged for an instant. Oh, she was all right.

She was in the Willowmore where Russ had left her. She must call her mother. Why, her mother would be frantic. What had she been thinking of?

The phone rang four or five times, rang a dozen times more.

There was no answer. Boots' heart was beating thickly, painfully. She had had her story all ready. She had been in a movie with Sherry

Manning. They had not realized it was so late. Could she stay all night with Sherry who, with her widowed mother, perched high above the city in a two-room apartment down near Sutton Place?

But the failure of her parents to answer the phone upset her plans.

She could not send them a wire.

In their quiet household it would be like a bombshell. Oh, what was she doing, away from the people who loved her so dearly—in this strange room, in this strange hotel, with slipped feet passing to and fro in the halls and strange voices talking and laughing rancously outside?

She had switched on the bedside lamp. In the mirror opposite, her face was white and strained, a ghostly glimmer.

"I look a fright," she said, burying her head in her hands. "I look terrible. . . ."

The cowhide bag at her feet was Russ's. The money which would pay for her room was his. But she was still perfectly free. Nothing had happened. She was free to turn the latch, walk out of that door this minute. . . . out of his life, if she cared to. There was still time. . . .

She stumbled to her feet and in that instant the sound of a ringing bell smote the stillness. This telephone. . . .

She reached for the instrument,

every nerve in her body tingling.

The deep-thundered voice rounding

over the wire was Russ's.

"Feel better, huh?"

She began to tremble. The spell was on her again, the spell that everything about this big, square-shouldered man with the ready smile had for her. Ah, but she mustn't give in to it—she dare not!

"I'll come right over. We'll eat someplace nearby. Listen, honey," in a lowered tone, "my brother knows a minister who'll fix us up tomorrow. . . ."

Her mind was in a turmoil.

"Where are you now?"

"I'm over in Louis Island City.

He there in 15 minutes."

THE receiver clicked and the actual miles of distance separating them were there once more.

The spell was broken, once his voice dropped into the void.

She ran into the bathroom, began to brush her hair, to wash her fevered face and hands. She must get clear away from here, be gone before he arrived. She would leave a note for him, explaining. . . .

Her movements were slower than usual. It seemed to her that she could not do anything properly.

Her dress was sadly rumpled.

She wouldn't go home. She would try Sherry first. Sherry was two or three years older than she and possessed of good, hard common sense. Thumbing through the pages, she found the Mannings number. Sherry's name wasn't there. She'd go up to Greenwich to

The Fidelis class of the First Baptist church, Mrs. Hugh Smith, teacher, will hold a business meeting Thursday night at 7:30 in the adult department.

Canning Program Is Started Here

ERA Community Kitchens Over County Launch Meat Canning

ROWE'S REASON

The big reason why School-hoy Rowe is pitching such phenomenal ball this year is the young lady above—Edna Mary Skinner, pretty, brown-eyed miss of El Dorado, Ark., Rowe's home town. The Detroit Tiger pitcher popped the question to Edna a short time ago, and the two childhood sweethearts are to be married as soon as the world series is over—he says.

ment of the church. All members are urged to be present.

Continuing the study of the new manual, "The How and the Why of the W.M.U.," with Mrs. W. F. Agee leading, Circle 5 of the W.M.U. of the First Baptist church held a most interesting meeting Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Jesse Brown on South Washington street with Mrs. Tom Coleman and Mrs. Joe Coleman as associate hostesses. A short business session was in charge of the circle leader, Mrs. Hugh Smith, and the program was given by Mrs. Smith. Mrs. Agee and Mrs. Wallace Rogers. There were 19 who responded to the roll call, including one new member, Mrs. Bessie Ellen Evans. During the social hour, the hostesses served a delightful ice course with cake.

Mrs. Harry Hawthorne and little daughter, Carolyn, with Mrs. P. C. Stephens of Blevins, have returned from a visit to her sister, Mrs. D. A. Washburn of Longview, Texas.

Supervisors of the canning kitchens in the county were called in recently to attend a meat canning demonstration, given by Miss Helen Griffin, county home demonstration agent, and Mrs. J. E. McGuire, local field woman of the ERA.

Meat canning in summer is not recommended, but because of the shortage of pasture and feed this year, the Extension Department of the U. of A. and the ERA are sponsoring a canning program as a relief measure to help care for the cattle that cannot be kept in good condition until cool weather.

Meat that is canned must be thoroughly chilled before canning. In and around Hope this is accomplished by putting meat in an ice house from 24 to 48 hours. Where no ice is available an ice box may be made. A refrigerator is not cold enough. This is done by putting a barrel or box, with a tight fitting lid, inside another box, packing between with sawdust or cottonseed hulls. A hole is bored through the bottom to allow drainage.

Three pounds of ice are necessary to one pound of meat to insure the proper chilling. Meat is boned and packed in cracked ice, the more the ice being on top. The meat is taken to the kitchen in the ice box. Because of the great danger of poisoning that might result from improperly chilled meat, each instructor is instructed not to can any meat that is not properly chilled.

It is recommended that, if possible, animals be kept until cold weather before killing. It will not be as expensive and the product is better because of difference in time of cooking.

Further instructions will shortly be printed as to the care and the preparation of the animal for cooking.

Sister MARY'S KITCHEN

Now Science Puts O. K. on Toast.

BY MARY E. DAGUE
NEA Service Staff Writer

The scientists have recently had toast up for trial in the laboratory. And they found out some interesting things.

We have known for some time that the heat of toasting acts on the starch in bread, changing it to sugar or "dextrinizing" it, and thereby shortening the time required for body digestion. But might the toasting heat be harmful?

Tomorrow's Menu
Breakfast: Chilled tomato juice, cereal cooked with raisins, cream, cinnamon toast, milk, coffee.
Luncheon: Toasted cheese and green pepper sandwiches, fresh pear salad, nut cookies, milk, tea.
Dinner: Flank steak, English onion chops, potatoes au gratin, broccoli with Hollandaise sauce, French endive with Roquefort cheese dressing, mint parfait with chocolate sauce, macaroons, milk, coffee.

Eliminates Potatoes
That's good news since toast is so useful to us housewives. Many important chefs in the great hotels and restaurants throughout the country serve lamb chops, broiled chicken, broiled kidneys, mushrooms, asparagus and any number of foods on toast.

Potatoes are unnecessary when toast figures in the menu. Rarebits and creamed foods on toast are inviting at luncheon time and broiled fillet of beef, lamb chops and Salisbury steaks on toast are excellent for dinner.

Creamed dried beef with hard cooked eggs on toast is easily prepared, inexpensive and nourishing luncheon dish. So are creamed oysters on toast.

Onion soup, tomato soup and celery soup all gain distinction if two or three squares of toast are sprinkled with grated cheese and served in each portion.

Make Melba Toast
Melba toast is perfect with soups of all varieties, vegetable juice cocktails or with tea. Cut bread as thin as possible and toast in the oven until crisp and delicately browned. Do not butter but serve sweet butter with it. Sweet butter, a you know, is made with sweet cream and is unsalted.

Cinnamon toast is a universal favorite with children and grownups alike. Use 1 teaspoon cinnamon to three teaspoons granulated sugar. Spread hot toast with butter and sprinkle generously with the mixture of cinnamon and sugar.

Maple breadsticks are different and delightful. Use light brown sugar if you have no maple in the house. Cut bread in 1 inch strips and trim off crusts. Butter on all sides and roll in maple sugar. Toast in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F., until brown.

New Hope

The meeting closed at this place Saturday with several additions to the church.

L. F. Watkins called on Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Tyler of Bright Star Monday.

Bro. Leroy Samuel of DeAnn preached a good sermon at this place Sunday. We invite him back.

Miss Myra Lee Boyett of Washington spent Friday with Miss Jettie Watkins.

We were glad to have Mr. and Mrs. John Hartfield attend our meeting.

MARRIAGE BY BILL OF SALE

"You sold me, so I hate you!" Mrs. Hildegard Rost, clinging to Paul Herman (left), told her husband, Richard Rost (right), in the Hoboken, N. J., police station. The two went to jail following the disappearance of a book of rare stamps which Rost believed his wife might have taken. Then it was revealed that Herman had paid him $500 in the presence of a notary public. Mrs. Rost says the $500 was the price for her release.

Musical and Dance Numbers in Wednesday and Thursday's Program

Hailed by motion picture critics as the "laughiest" riot of love and comedy of the year, Harold Teen, Lillums Lilies, and all the famous characters of Carl Ed's world popular comic strip cartoon head the Saenger's Wednesday and Thursday program, supported by innumerable other interesting characters, bevy of pretty girls and spectacular dancers.

Hal LeRoy, famous stage dancing star was brought direct from Broadway where he was headliner in "Strike Me Pink" to play the part of "Harold Teen," and Paul Gerard Smith and Al Cohn, who wrote the screenplay have brought the cartoon characters to life in a story that is as funny as it is exciting.

Rochele Hudson, who will be remembered in "Wild Boys of the Road," "Dr. Bull," "Mr. Sketch," and other pictures, has the role of Lillums Lilies, of "Convention City" fame, takes the part of Mimi, daughter of Snatcher and Miss Hudson's rival, sharing honors in the leading feminine roles.

Guy Kibbee appears as Lillums Lilies' father with Clara Blandick in the role of her mother. Hugh Herbert is Rathburn, the comic show director.

While the picture is not a musical there are several musical numbers as well as dance specialties. Songs are sung by Miss Hudson, Miss Ellis and Chic Chandler.

Plan Lower Taxes On Federal Liquor

New Fight On Bootlegger Seen by Slashing Taxes

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—Slashes in federal liquor taxes and import duties to eliminate the bootlegger will be proposed in the next congress by a group of representatives who led the repeal fight.

The fact that the treasury has not reaped the harvest of revenue expected from liquor sales and the continuance of large-scale bootlegging prompted the move.

Proposals to restore the old domestic rate of $1.10 a gallon on 100 proof liquor and to slice the $5 a gallon tariff by 50 per cent are being considered by experts attached to the house ways and means committee.

Secretary Morgenthau has indicated he is opposed at present to any reduction in the existing $2 domestic tax. He is seeking to kill the illicit traffic by a large force of internal revenue agents.

The representatives plan to await developments in Morgenthau's campaign. If it is successful between now and January 1, they may delay their drive for lower taxes. Should he fail, the leaders say they will push for a reduction.

They point to the recommendation of J. H. Choate, Jr., director of the alcohol control administration, who said the bootlegger could be eliminated by lowering imports.

YERES ONE AH ALWAYS LIKED, MISTAH MAJAH, HIS NAME IS "LAST WALTZ," AN' HE'S RUNNIN' IN TH' FIFTH RACE TOMORROW!—EF HE'S WOUND UP, HE CAN RUN OUT FROM UNDER HIS JOCKEY, AN GO 'ROUND TH' TRACK AN GET BACK JES AS TH' JOCKEY COMES DOWN ON TH' SADDLE AGIN!

GO PUT $200 ON HIM FOR ME, JASON, AND LAY $25 FOR YOURSELF, EGAD! UM—MUMF—REMIND ME, JASON, WHEN WE RETURN TO THE CITY, TO BUY A RACE HORSE—BETTER MAKE IT TWO!—HM—M—THE HOOPLE STABLES! MY COLORS WILL BE THE SAME AS MY COAT-OF-ARMS—YAS—ROYAL BLUE AND GOLD—UM—M—BOYAL BLUE AND ROLD—UM—

HIGH HITTER HOOPLE

BOOTS AND HER BUDDIES

WHOA, CAVALCADE—UNLAX!! WOTS ON YER MIND, AN' I HOPE YUH REALIZE I'M FLATTERIN' YUH

HUH?

ALLEY OOP

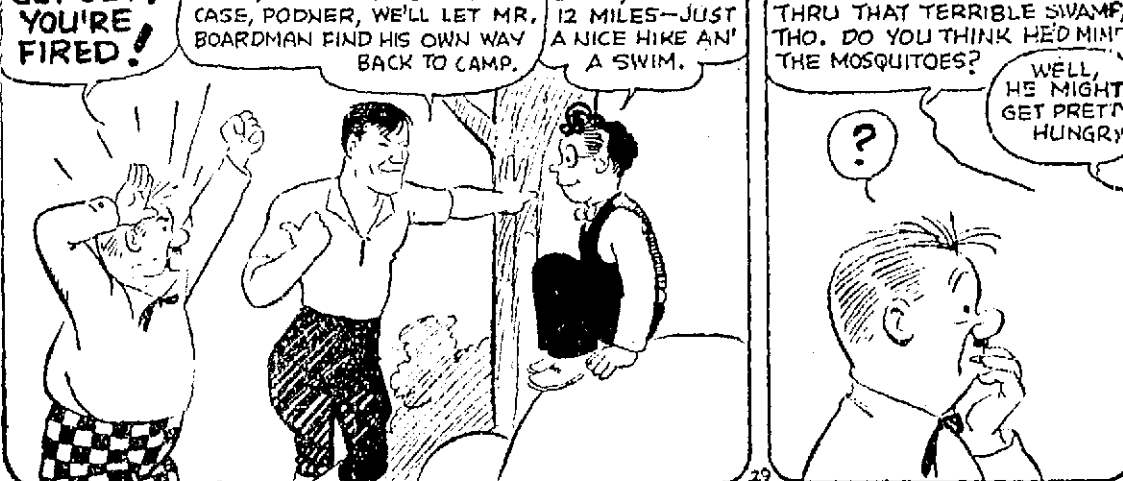

I APPRECIATE YOUR GOOD TASTE, IN SELECTING A GIFT TO CHEER ME UP, ITTY SAURY, BUT I THINK YOU SHOWED VERY LITTLE TACT IN PRESENTING IT TO ME IN FRONT OF DINNY! HE LOOKED TERRIBLY INSULTED, AND I'M SURE HE WAS ANGRY WHEN HE LEFT HERE

KAK!

MAYBE HE WASN'T SO VERY MAD, AFTER ALL—HERE HE COMES, BACK—

THUMP! THUMP! THUMP! THUMP!

WASH TUBBS

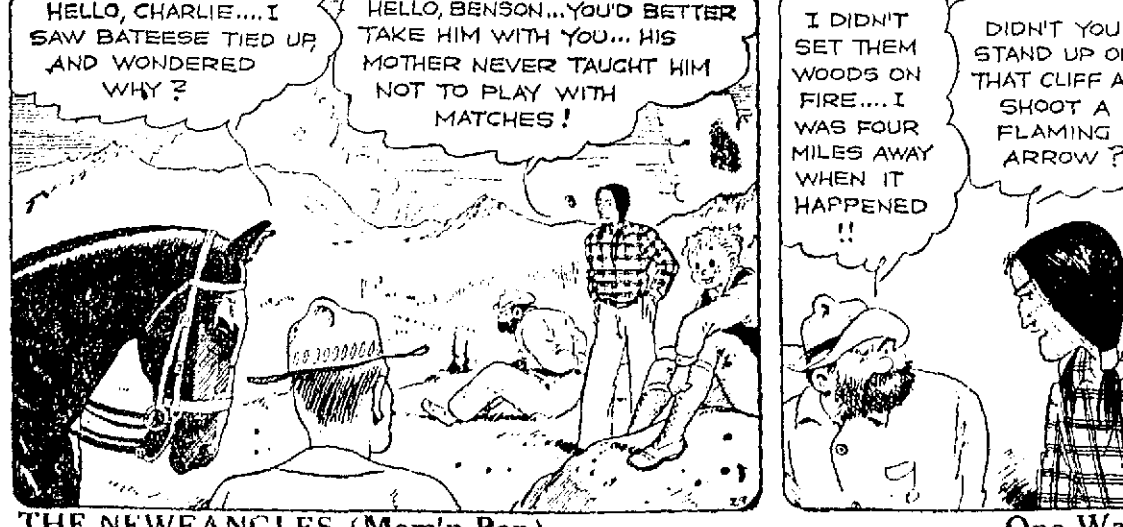

GET OUT! YOU'RE FIRED!

WELL, WELL! THAT BEING THE CASE, PADDY, WE'LL LET MR. BOARDMAN FIND HIS OWN WAY BACK TO CAMP.

SURE, IT'S ONLY 12 MILES—JUST A NICE HIKE AN' A SWIM.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

HELLO, CHARLIE...I SAW BATEESE TIED UP AND WONDERED WHY?

HELLO, BENSON...YOU'D BETTER TAKE HIM WITH YOU...HIS MOTHER NEVER TAUGHT HIM NOT TO PLAY WITH MATCHES!

I DIDN'T SET THEM WOODS ON FIRE...I WAS FOUR MILES AWAY WHEN IT HAPPENED!!

DIDN'T YOU STAND UP ON THAT CLIFF AND SHOOT A FLAMING ARROW?

...AND WASN'T IT COVERED WITH BURNING TAR?

THAT'S A LIE! IT WASN'T TAR...IT WAS PITCH!!

THAT'S ALL I WANTED TO KNOW! I KNEW IF I LED YOU ON, YOU'D TRIP YOURSELF...TAKE HIM AWAY, BENSON!!

COME ON WITH ME, LITTLE ORCHID...BACK TO THE HOTHOUSE...AND WHEN YOU GET OUT FROM WHERE YOU'RE GOING, THEY'LL BE RAISING ORANGES IN ALASKA!!

THE NEWFANGLES (Mom'n Pop)

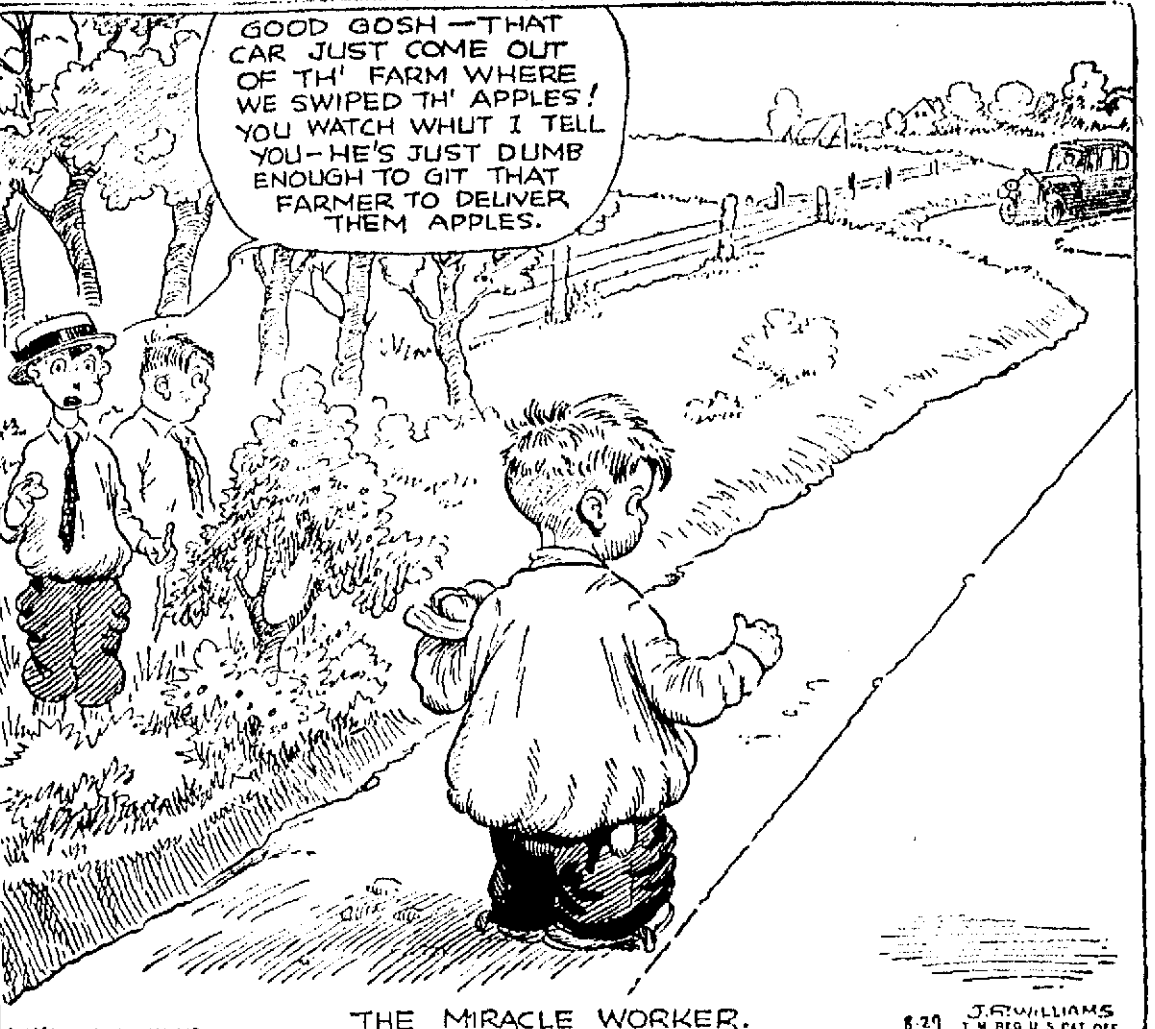

MRS. VAN SWANKTON TOLD MY WIFE THAT THE DETECTIVE SHE Hired KNOWS WHO THE THIEF IS, THAT'S BIG NEWS, JIM, BUT I'LL BET YOU'LL NEVER GET A STORY OUTA HIM!

YEAH? WELL, HE NEVER HAD ME WORK ON HIM!

NOW, IF YOU'LL GIVE ME THIS STORY AND PERMISSION TUSE YOUR NAME, I'LL—

WHAT'S IN IT FOR ME?

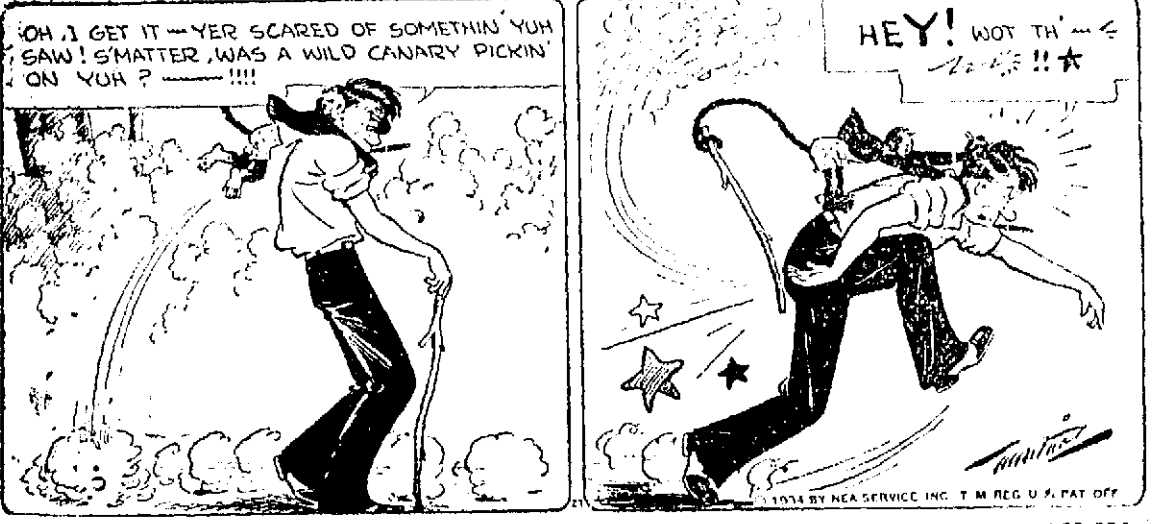

OUT OUR WAY
By WILLIAMS

GOOD GOSH—THAT CAR JUST CAME OUT OF TH' FARM WHERE WE SWIPED TH' APPLES! YOU WATCH WHUT I TELL YOU—HE'S JUST DUMB ENOUGH TO GIT THAT FARMER TO DELIVER THEM APPLES.

THE MIRACLE WORKER.

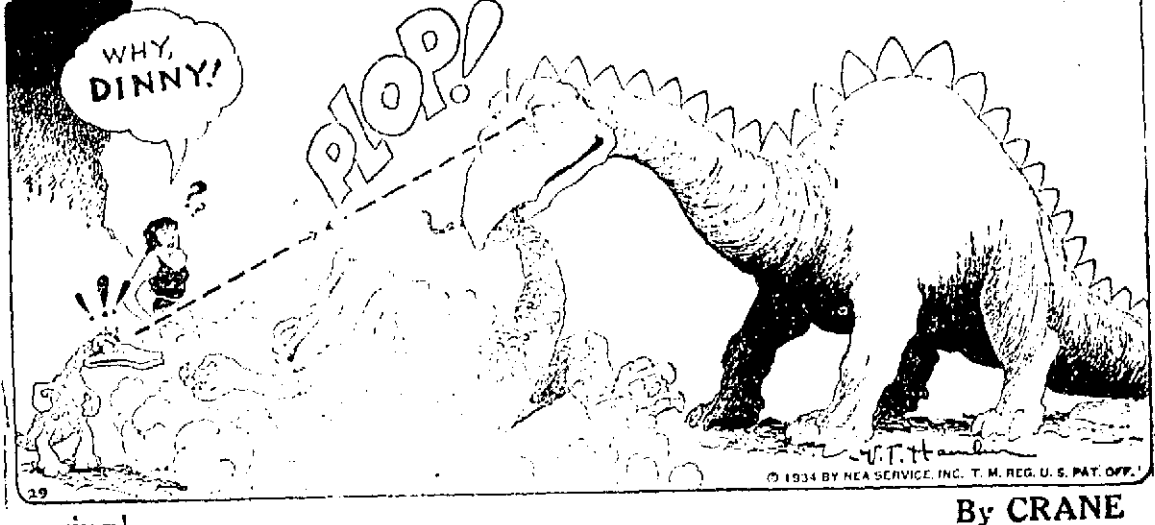

What Now, My Little Man!
By MARTIN

OH, I GET IT—YER SCARED OF SOMETHIN' YUH SAW! SMATTER, WAS A WILD CANARY PICKIN' ON YUH?—!!!!

HEY! WOT TH'—

Nothing Little About Dinny's Gift!
By HAMLIN

WHY, DINNY?

PLOP!

Very Encouraging!
By CRANE

OH, HE WOULDN'T MIND THAT, HE DOESN'T ENJOY EATIN', ANYWAY.

THAT'S TRUE, AND IN CASE HE DOES GET HUNGRY, HE CAN ALWAYS KILL A BEAR.

SURE, ONLY HE'S SO PARTICULAR HE'D WANT IT COOKED.

WELL, SO LONG, SPORT. WATCH OUT FOR THE WILDCATS, AND IF YOU HAPPEN TO MISS THE CAMP, JUST KEEP GOING—THERE'S A ROAD ABOUT 40 MILES BEYOND.

The End of the Trail!
By BLOSSER

...AND WASN'T IT COVERED WITH BURNING TAR?

THAT'S A LIE! IT WASN'T TAR...IT WAS PITCH!!

THAT'S ALL I WANTED TO KNOW! I KNEW IF I LED YOU ON, YOU'D TRIP YOURSELF...TAKE HIM AWAY, BENSON!!

COME ON WITH ME, LITTLE ORCHID...BACK TO THE HOTHOUSE...AND WHEN YOU GET OUT FROM WHERE YOU'RE GOING, THEY'LL BE RAISING ORANGES IN ALASKA!!

One Way to Get 'Em!
By COWAN

—AND ALL THAT OLD BUNK!!
